PROPERTY SUMMARY

Welcome to Camp Island. Nearly 500 acres (most being high ground) Camp Island is home to ducks, deer, fish, turkey and even quail have been sighted. After passing through the brick columned gate, the entrance carries you through a pine forest, over a steel bridge, and onto the island where you are greeted by the pavilion and a bulkhead for tying off boats. Camp Island is full of trails/roads, shooting lanes, and miles of river frontage! Prior to the end of the Civil War, this same high ground served as an encampment for runaway slaves, Union prisoners, and the Lumbee Indians that were laborers for projects such as Fort Fisher in New Hanover County. Records indicate that in 1865 there was a deadly skirmish on this very island between those encamped and the neighboring landowners. Today, the property serves as the ultimate turn-key outdoor hunting and fishing property already outfitted with shooting lanes, good roads, deer stands, and duck blinds.
