Property Summary

Located just northwest of Kingfisher, Oklahoma, this 80 acre tract offers a productive piece of farmland with excellent access along a county road. The property is primarily cultivated cropland that has historically been planted in winter wheat, with approximately 81% currently in crop production. Productive soils including Renthin clay loam, Lovedale fine sandy loam, and Kingfisher silt loam contribute to an overall NCCPI rating of approximately 52.3, supporting strong agricultural potential. The farm features gently rolling topography with about 42 feet of elevation change, allowing for natural drainage while remaining highly workable for farm equipment. A small drainage corridor runs through portions of the tract, adding character while leaving most of the acreage open and farmable. This property would make an excellent addition to an existing farming operation or a long-term investment in productive Kingfisher County farmland.
