Property Summary

Treasure at Jackson Trace | 80-Acre Secluded Hardwood Sanctuary, Talladega County

Tucked against two scenic hillsides, Treasure at Jackson Trace is a secluded 80-acre property rich in character, history, and outdoor opportunity. With remnants of an old homestead site, this tract is now dominated by a sprawling deciduous forest loaded with hardwoods. The dense canopy produces heavy acorn crops year after year, creating an untouched, acorn-rich sanctuary teeming for whitetails and wild turkeys.

The natural topography between the two ridges creates ideal bedding benches, travel corridors, and natural hunting pinch-points. Enclosed entirely by neighboring timber tracts, the property benefits from a massive natural buffer that provides unmatched privacy and virtually zero outside hunting pressure.

Note on Access & Pricing: The property is landlocked with no deeded access
